

Deborah Burrow

Deborah lives and works in Suffolk, England.

Deborah was born in 1971 in Berkshire and has been residing in East Anglia since 1974, initially in a rural environment until 1989. She currently lives in a town a few miles away from the open countryside in Suffolk.

Deborah earned a Diploma of Higher Education and worked for the NHS before deciding to pursue a career as a professional artist in 2008. While working for the NHS and subsequent jobs, she dedicated many years to attending classes and workshops to refine her drawing and painting skills. During this time, she frequently sold paintings and accepted commissions.

Deborah has always drawn inspiration from landscapes and wildlife, influenced by her rural upbringing and her father, who also painted landscapes. She created a book about her early influences titled, "Whispers of the Landscape" which is available on Amazon.

Deborah primarily paints in acrylic but also uses watercolour and ink, employing colour and textural techniques to give a modern twist to landscapes and wildlife.

She also conducts workshops and online courses.

Deborah is a member of the Ipswich Art Society and a founding member of the Ipswich Visual Arts Community.

*"For me, painting mirrors the natural growth of landscapes, starting with a seed and evolving to show depth, texture, and atmosphere.
I find inspiration in the grandeur and raw essence of nature.*

*Intrigued by its mysteries, I aim to express my feelings from being on location.
Nature's seemingly random unfolding hides a pattern and meaning. Each brushstroke reflects the intuitive movement visible in wild landscapes when observed closely. In those moments, I am truly in my element."*
